

CUVÉE 1821

ZONIN PROSECCO

Zonin interprets the present and envisages the future of wine.

Our brand conceives tradition as a means to keep renewing creativity and evolving.

We set our sights on Prosecco with pride and determination well before the establishment of the DOC and before Prosecco became the international sensation of the last decade. This is because Prosecco has the versatility and ability to instantly astonish, to bring people together and because it is an affordable luxury. Quintessentially Italian and authentic.

Our successful intuition was born of a far-sighted vision combined with the desire to harness unexplored potential without preconceived ideas. We firmly believe we can establish an unmistakably Italian Sparkling Experience.

WINEMAKING

The grapes undergo gentle pressing to extract only the best quality must. A percentage of the must is fermented at a controlled temperature of 18°C while the remainder is kept at 0°C until it is time for the second fermentation, which takes place in containers capable of maintaining a pressure of about 5 atmospheres.

The process is the result of years of experience and investment in skills and technologies suitable for bottling a product that is always fresh and capable of expressing its harmony and intensity via a recognisable, exact and unique flavour.

TASTING NOTES

Pale, bright straw yellow in colour. The mousse is white, fine, with a very subtle perlage.

Pleasantly intense, fruity and aromatic on the nose with distinct aromas of wisteria flowers and rennet apple.

Due to its particular wine-making process, it is always very fresh and vivacious on the palate. The typical almond-like note of the Glera grape stands out among others.

No exceptional occasions are required to uncork a bottle of Cuvée 1821.

LEARN AND APPRECIATE

- Cuvée 1821 takes its name from the year the company was founded. It is Zonin's iconic Prosecco, prized by wine lovers all over the world. The bottle of Cuvée 1821 was designed in collaboration with Pininfarina, one of the greatest names in Italian design. Its shape embodies the attitude of the Zonin brand, its heritage and the precise idea it has for the future of Prosecco.
- Its distinctive colour is 'teal', a highly recognisable medium shade of greenish blue.
- The musts used to make Cuvée 1821 rest at a temperature of 0°C until the right moment, when they begin the process of becoming wine. The technology enables the product to always be vivacious and fresh. The Cuvée 1821 blend is always different, but each time it is created to have a flavour that is exact, recognisable and unique.
